Narrative summary of project:

Each year, it has been increasingly difficult for Splash Pool, Inc. to fund the costs of keeping the swimming pool open. This January it became evident that if the pool was to open this year, more money would have to be raised. Members of CCBG decided to host a "Miss-ter Splash Pool Contest" to raise money to defer some of the costs so that the pool could operate another year and provide recreation for the area youth.

Twelve area gentlemen donned women's apparel and accessories to become raving beauties (ugh) and paraded around the stage vying for the crown. Each contestant performed a talent and tried their best to act feminine. All those who participated agreed that they had developed a greater appreciation for women and "what they go through to look beautiful."

All those who attended agreed that they had not laughed so much in years, but looked forward to having that opportunity again next year.
