

To Whom It May Concern:

South Iron Community Betterment Association/Annapolis would like to nominate NORMA OWENS for the 2014 Leadership Award.

A few years ago, Norma moved into our area after purchasing the C Highway Trout Farm, a few miles from our community. One night at our CBA meeting, Norma attended and introduced herself as a new business person and resident of our community. From that day forward, Norma has been there at every meeting or function planned. During the fundraisers, Norma will not only be on the planning committee, but the first one there setting up, working the project, or on the clean-up crew. She has become quite an asset to our CBA, by being one of the most dependable members that we have in our membership.

She is always looking ahead for possible future projects, seeing the needs, and how it would improve the area. Not only does she have great ideas, but she has the know-how to work on the project and the equipment to do so. She is capable of running a bobcat, tractor, mower, and many other pieces of heavy equipment. If she sees a need of repair at the community center, after consulting with various CBA officers as to her plan, she immediately brings in her "tools", completes the job, and takes no credit for the time that she volunteers for our community.

She is quite active in the political arena of our county, having served in various ways. She is not afraid to voice her opinion when she sees fit, to improve the betterment of the community and/or the county. Currently, she is a member of the Iron County Ambulance Board. During the recent renovation of the local ambulance building, she was very instrumental in the planning, research, and actual construction performed.

During the process of completing a project, she is a good listener and organizer. She never tries to "take-over" the work, but if placed as the leader, she performs her task well in this role. By doing this, she has become an excellent motivator and role model for the rest of our organization. She never starts a job that she doesn't finish.

Since becoming a SICBA member, she has been very active and beneficial in the completion of the following projects: placement of rubber mulch at Freedom Park Playground, on-going construction of the walking trail, renovation of the ambulance building and landscaping, and assisted with the painting of the mural at the Freedom Park Playground.

Norma Owens is most deserving of this Adult Leadership Award. Our CBA would be most appreciative, honored, and immensely thankful, if you will choose her as THE PERSON to receive this most prestigious award.

Sincerely,

Geri Mills
President, SICBA
